SALT LAKE, Oct. 2.—The Utah Power & Light company is preparing to expand. This was admitted by members of the directorate which returned from a trip through northern Utah and southern Idaho ostensibly to inspect plants but in reality to consider additional facilities in the line of additional plants.

While no official announcement has been made, some of the members of the party have made no secret of the fact that the company is contemplating the construction of additional plants on Bear river to meet the steadily growing demand for power. Further, in anticipation of the time when Bear river will be fully developed and utilized, steps have been taken toward securing rights to develop water power resources in other districts within practicable transmission distance of the market.

THIRTY-ONE PLANTS.
The company is now operating thirty-one hydroelectric plants, the largest of which are on the Bear river in northern Utah and southeastern Idaho. Bear river is the largest stream in the Great basin and is unique in the fact that it is completely controlled by the power company's Bear lake reservoir situated upstream from all plants. The reservoir is of such magnitude that all flood water can be stored for use during the seasons of low natural flow and equalization is possible not only during any one year, but over a series of years. This unusual control of the stream has enabled a highly effective development of the power resources and provides reliable and continuous power.

The largest plant in the system is at Grace, Idaho, and has a capacity of 45,000 horsepower. An additional unit is being installed which will increase the capacity to 60,000 horsepower. The Oneida plant is next in size with an installed capacity of 40,000 horsepower. At Oneida a concrete dam 115 feet high creates a reservoir of sufficient volume to provide for hourly and daily fluctuations in load, thereby making the Oneida plant the regulating station of the system.

TRANSMISSION LINES.
Three transmission line circuits, each 134 miles long, operated at 138,000 volts and having an aggregate capacity of more than 100,000 horsepower, convey the Bear river power to a main distribution substation at the terminal near Salt Lake City. An extensive network of 44,000 volt lines supplied from the terminal substation and further supplied from other hydroelectric stations deliver power to 44,000 volt substations located in cities and towns and other primary points of use.

A modern reserve stream station of 20,000 horsepower capacity is situated at Salt Lake and connected with the main transmission system for the purpose of providing for emergencies which may arise.

The company is now served by the company line in eastern Idaho, north central Utah, and extends from Ashton, Idaho, near Yellowstone National park on the north to Huntington, Utah, on the south, a distance of approximately 350 miles. The population of the area served is about 300,000 and among the principal industries are agriculture, stock-growing, metal and coal mining. The population is rich in natural resources, many of which are as yet undeveloped.

The company now serves more than 50,000 customers. In addition to residential and commercial lighting, power is supplied to coal and metal mines, interurban and street railways, irrigation pumps, cement and flour mills and many other industries. The total load on the system is 120,000 horsepower.

DIVIDENDS PAID.
The preparations for mailing checks today covering the regular quarterly dividend on the first preferred stock have brought to light some interesting information concerning the customers' ownership campaign conducted by the Utah Power & Light company since the first of the year.

Since about January 1, 1922, the Utah Power & Light company has conducted a consistent campaign to add to its financial strength by the sale of 7 per cent first preferred stock to its customers. As a result about 1200 customer owners have been added to the list of stockholders, representing about $250,000 in stock.

Within the territory served by the company there are approximately 2000 shareholders, whose holdings represent an aggregate stock value of nearly $3,000,000. On that basis the annual dividend distribution on the 7 per cent first preferred stock in this territory is about $300,000 or $50,000 quarterly. The stockholders today will represent in the aggregate about $50,000.

HAS TO WED TO GAIN FORTUNE

BRIGHAM HAS BIG PEACH LOSS

SALT LAKE, Oct. 2.—A transcontinental tourist yesterday brought to Salt Lake, Robert Wildhorse, 21 years of age, an Indian who claims to be a descendant of the Navajo. He is a member of the Navajo tribe and is a member of the Navajo tribe and is a member of the Navajo tribe.

Wildhorse set out from San Francisco on September 1 to ride horseback to New York City. Everything went well until he reached Sacramento, when one of his horses became fractious and ended its life by jumping off a viaduct in the California capital. Through the kindness of a Sacramento man, the traveler was able to secure two horses, and again started his long journey.

Thirty-three miles out of Gold Hill, Utah, Wildhorse took sick. He had erected for himself a tent. Meanwhile the horses wandered away and Wildhorse was picked up by a passing automobile and brought to Salt Lake. The traveler says that he saw eight months' service in France. He says that Chief Little Soldier, who died on the Pance reservation at the age of 92 years, was his great-grandfather. If Wildhorse is married on his thirty-sixth or thirty-seventh birthday, he can produce the marriage license proving the ceremony to have been performed on either birthday, he will inherit $40,000,000, according to his statement, from the estates of his Indian forefathers.

Princess Warner Jo-Kom-Tash, now Madame Anne Schwarzer of Austria, is Wildhorse's mother and also his guardian. According to Wildhorse, his eldest sister, Princess Wino Two Feathers, is married and lives with her husband and children at Nome, Alaska. Another sister, Sweet Dove, lives in Paris.

BRIGHAM, Oct. 2.—Between 700 and 750 carloads of peaches will represent the season's shipment from the Brigham City district, according to the estimates of the shippers. Of this amount about 75 carloads were moved by truck to Utah, Idaho and Wyoming towns, between 50 and 60 cars in less than carload lots by express and despite the heavy market between 20 and 25 per cent of the crop will be lost.

The canneries have taken large quantities of the fruit when too ripe for market, but due to the exceptionally heavy yield, and the limited time in which to handle the crop, the total waste will be very high. The average gross price received by the growers is about 65 cents a bushel, and the average net yield about 30 to 35 cents a bushel.

Preparations have been practically completed for handling the apple crop, which gives promise of a good yield. Local shippers estimate that 250 to 300 cars of apples will be shipped this fall from Brigham City and that the Bear river district. The price probably will run about $15 a bulk ton; $20 for Jonathans and similar varieties; $35 for Winter Bananas and about $50 for Delicious. A considerable part of the apple crop will be held for local consumption.

The potato yield is exceptionally heavy this year, and many cars already have been moved. The price has ranged around 50 cents a hundred, but the emergency freight rate expired yesterday, and the market just now is unsettled.

The sugar beet harvest will start this week. The beets are above the average in quality, but there is only about a two-thirds crop as compared with previous years. The Brigham City and Great Salt Lake areas are in readiness for the campaign, and are expected to be in operation between October 10 and 15. The run this season will be shorter than usual, because of the reduced beet acreage.

DECISIONS MADE ON LAND OFFICE CASES

SALT LAKE, Oct. 2.—Decisions in six land office cases have been announced by Gould B. Blakely, register of the United States land office here, and A. T. Moon, receiver for the Salt Lake land office. The cases were presented during the last few months.

In the case of Mark A. Johnson and Edwin M. Johnson against Joseph A. Fitzpatrick, the case was decided in favor of Johnson and Johnson, the plaintiffs. Fitzpatrick, according to the evidence presented, filed an application for a stockgrowers' homestead October 18, 1921, and the protest was filed February 23, 1922. It is claimed in the protest that one Mark Johnson originally took the property in 1874 as a preemption claim. He made valuable improvements on it and these were bought with land supposed to be that on which the property was located. The case was decided in favor of Johnson and Johnson, the plaintiffs. The land is in Tooele county and it is estimated that the improvements are valued at $5000. It was brought out further that the Johnson brothers thought the land belonged to them, as the fences and roads so indicated, and that this thought was entertained until the plaintiffs had the land surveyed a few years ago.

In the case of Floyd Christensen against Leo F. Tietjen, also involving a stock-raising homestead entry, the decision also was in favor of the protestant.

The contest was dismissed, however,

The case of Yenza L. Jensen against John C. Duncan, a homestead entry case, was decided in favor of the protestant.

The same decision was returned in the case of Emma Hodges against Adella Young, involving a stock-raising homestead entry.

In the case of Vern Ewell against Fred L. Tietjen, a homestead entry, the decision favored the protestant. Mr. Blakely said that during the last few days about 40,000 acres of land, mostly stock-raising land, had been allotted to settlers.

JOINT STOCK LAND BANK BEGINS WORK

SALT LAKE, Oct. 2.—The Pacific Coast Joint Stock Land bank of Salt Lake is beginning to function with the preliminaries incident to organization completed and the disposal of its quota of bonds in the amount of half a million dollars. In addition to Secretary C. H. West, four inspectors, appraisers, two in Utah and two in Idaho, have been appointed, and are now in the field preparing reports on farms on which loans are being sought.

The Utah inspectors so far appointed, are C. Y. Cannon and Fred W. Merrill, while those for Idaho are C. E. Widdoes and John H. Welch. Because of the applications having accumulated during the period of organization, Secretary West also is devoting considerable time in the field. The board of directors of the bank took its initial action last week on loan applications. A dozen or more reports on appraisements are now being prepared, and these, with many others, are expected to be in shape for consideration by the board during the next week or ten days. The indications are that the present force of appraisers will have to be increased to facilitate the handling of loan applications, and it is understood that recommendations for additional appointments have been made.
